prostration induced by fright.

The tenement which was completed with the exception of the plastering and the inside work, was being built for Cohen & Bessman, real estate speculators. Carpenters had not been gone from the building fifteen minutes when it fell before the wind. No explanation for the collapse has been advanced. Rumors that several children were playing in the building and were pinioned in the wreck caused great excitement in the neighborhood until investigation proved them false.

"Why I wasn't a bit scared," said little Edgar Desch. "I just out my arms around a great big beam when I falt everything dropping and held on till I got to the bottom. And I'm not hurt a bit either. It was fun'
